
Restrict Access to Entire Website

Posted by digital21 - 2008/10/05 13:32

Hi,

I have Joomla 1.5.7 and have been playing around with JUGA v1.51 and its supporting modules/components for a while now. I've been able to restrict certain content/modules etc, but can anyone assist me with restricting access to the entire website? I only want people who I've provided access to to be able to login in. The only thing a visitor should see when visiting the site is a user/pass login form. Once they login they will see everything that JUGA has set them to have access to.

Thanks,
AJ

Re:Restrict Access to Entire Website

Posted by admin - 2008/10/06 20:11

Have you tried the "disable site" option in the Joomla core -- is that something you're looking for?

Re:Restrict Access to Entire Website

Posted by digital21 - 2008/10/07 16:28

Thanks for your response. Disabling the site is not what I want to do. I want people who I've provided access to to be able to login in. The only thing a visitor should see when visiting the site is a user/pass login form. Once they login they will see everything that JUGA has set them to have access to. When the site is disabled it is temporarily shut down and now one can log in. That's not what I want.

Thanks,
AJ
